

to the Education Committee, advanced to General File. Senator, you had, I've got two amendments from you then. Is that correct? There was one on page 728 of the Journal that you'd given me earlier and then the one this morning.

PRESIDENT: Chair would interrupt to announce that there are 10, there are 12 students in the, under the north balcony who are guests this morning of Senator Wesely. They are from Wesleyan University and Union College. They are involved in social work in their junior year and they're here to watch us this morning with their instructor, Marilyn Schweso. And we welcome you to the Legislature. We're on LB 942.

SENATOR VICKERS: Mr. President and members of the...Mr. Clerk, I'd like to pass over the one that was in the Journal and have the one that I gave you this morning.

CLERK: Okay. Mr. President, Senator Vickers would move to amend his own bill.

PRESIDENT: Senator Vickers.

SENATOR VICKERS: Mr. President and members, I apologize for this but the amendment that I'm offering to 942 does a couple of things and I don't have them printed. I don't have copies for you but I can tell you what they do. The first thing that it does is it reinstates the stricken language on page 4, lines 21-23 that deals with Indian schools on Indian reservations and the Dr. Warner from the Department of Education notified us and said that that language was stricken out inadvertently and that that language should remain in the statutes. So the first part, the first thing it does is leave that language in the bill. The second thing it does is that it would grandfather in those districts and there's only one of them that's in the process of this right now. Gresham Public Schools are in the process of contracting. They contracted and what we were doing with this bill is changing the rules and the argument made by Gresham and I agreed with that was that we shouldn't change the rules in the middle of the game. The rule that we're changing with 942 and I can explain the bill
